

And Why The World Is Going To Pieces

All of life comes together in the night.
In the starry night, in the soulful night,
In the greedy night, in the lonesome night,
In the breezy night, in the patriotic night,
In the all engulfing night.

Must we not remember who we are or whom we are to become?
Dear god will you forget us someday? Will anyone?
Who will weep for me when I shall rest unjustly in my grave.
Right lives, and dreams, touching hearts,
Streams.
Truth lies hovering, above our eyes numb
Jazz, invention and innovation
Sex and love, dreams and fire
Deep emotion, true lovely emotion.
Come again in my dreams, if not in my days
O lovely one. Find me in my lawful confusion,
In my many days, before I grow old and turn to stone.
My creator I have known you, but never seen you.
My creator I have felt you, but never touched you.
Why do you hide from me?
Do you live in the sunsets? Or in my sorrows or in the fields.
Come find me and bestow upon me
the holy truth of your existence.

Red country, old country
Young country and find country
Magical country and love country
Soul country and hope country
Sorrow country and loss country
My paths lead to you inevitably and perpetually.
Blue sun, purple sun,
Yes, O old proven sun Glare upon me sun, rest your all knowing rays on my skin,

Stare at me sun, show me the light in my darkness.
May light and dawn come soon
May love
Nothing comes all goes, all sleeps
My love too sleeps
Have I not given you all my love?
My dreams, my soul, my mind
Is that not enough?
What more do you crave?
Does the beauty of the stars not satisfy your revolting hunger and ignorance, to my broken heart.
Serene seductress,
that makes me dizzy and makes all my life ooze out of myself, I have seen you, and loved you What more is there left to say?
Now just run to me and bleed on my heart so we may become one True immortal, enduring love awaits you Come to it now,
Come!

Road, road running wild
Running road, ravishing road
Road that is long and cold Road, holy road
Road that leads nowhere
Road that carries me home some day
Road that is no road, but life Road I have lied down on you and rested my head on your skin,
And felt the very power of life.
Road you are all, and you are great Road you are mine, you are my home
Road I love you,
so lead me nowhere.
Temptation , swinging in the night
tingling in my body, numbness in my brain
I must live through today for tomorrow,
Guide me don't destroy me
I am your slave.

Sorrow and pain,
Greed and disdain
Sadness and nothing,
But still all the same.
I don't know who I am,
but yo do so tell me
Roam my meadows and sleep in my fields.
Loss everywhere
Loss in the sky and stars
Loss so great, it must be ours loss , cause hey life ain't fair Loss, cause life is just another bear.
Struggle, good old struggle,
that makes me a man
I know I shall never be a man till I light the sacred fire on my father's body. Still,
Struggle, cause it's how life works Struggle to live and sleep
And run and breathe and cry and struggle cause it's what men do Struggle, because it's what you have to do.
Youth and beauty, nothing is beautiful when you're old and everything is too beautiful when you're young Make me wise so I may know the difference,
And give me the courage to act on both.

Stars set, sun rises, dream ends
Reality and life so high
All you mystic souls I pray to you, in all I know and feel, dream of me when you are young and cry for me when you are old
For in this world so wrong, I have none but your crazy woes.
Love me now and love me forever,
because the world so cruel,
just like stone, has left me mad and alone.

- Jai Narang
March 2019